PRESIDENT'S REFLECTIONS

By Joe Moore, PhD, LCSW, Psychotherapist

November 2018

Our discussion on Tuesday, 10/23/18 was on "Jung, The Anima, Animus and Gender Issues." Unfortunately, the discussion turned to politics. It is very hard these days to stay away from politics. There seems to be too much vitriol in the air and not enough compassion for each other. It is interesting that the negative traits of the Anima are: hysteria and bitchiness while the negative traits of the Animus are: ruthlessness and aggression. I believe that in these instances the feminine has not accepted the positive Animus traits of assertiveness and courage while the masculine has not acknowledged the constructive Anima traits of compassion and tenderness. It is really sad to see the President unable to be compassionate towards the deaths and near deaths that have taken place over the last several weeks. I can be sad and angry at the same time.

I have a tee shirt that says: DISARM HATE. I really wish I knew how to do this. I do not. Jung writes; "When it [shadow] appears as an archetype…it is quite within the possibility for a man to recognize the relative evil of his nature, but it is a rare and shattering experience for him to gaze into the face of absolute evil."

C. G. Jung, Aion in The Collected Works of C. G. Jung, ed. William McGuire et al., trans. R. F. C. Hull, Bollingen Series XX (Princeton, N.J.: Princeton University Press, 1954-79) Vol. 9/2, p. 10.

So it is the unconscious projection onto others that produces hate. They are the evil ones. Therefore I can hate. In this sense, I cannot face the evil in me.

Lao Tzu states: "The higher the sun rises, the less shadow it casts." We went to a vigil for the Pittsburgh Jewish Community last night. The synagogue was packed and an estimated 2000 people could not get in. It was wonderful to come together in support of each other – all faiths as well as atheists. But the work of bringing sunlight to my shadow is an individual process. I must discover and face my own evil, which has been and will continue to be hard. Thank God there are few people who would have to face absolute evil in them. But those are the people we need to be very vigilant about.

I learn in an "ethics course" during my doctoral program that it is not easy to make a "good ethical decision." At best, one can (1) not do evil, (2) stop others from doing evil, (3) advocate against evil, and (4) then one will do good. Where this fits into my exploration of my shadow and my integration of my anima is a question to be answered.

It is well known that astrology was a powerful stimulant for the development of significant dimensions of Jung's work. Similarly, Jung's understanding of the human psyche provided a language and a framework that gave new life to the western astrological tradition, shaping the ancient knowledge into its modern form.

This lecture/workshop will be an introduction to the fundamentals of modern western astrology. The archetypal symbolism of the zodiacal signs, planets and houses will be explored within the context of the natal chart, and we will contend with questions about individual fate, psychological development and teleology.

No previous knowledge of astrology is required.
Juana Yepes is an Analyst in Training at the C. G. Jung Institute of New York. Her academic background includes studies in Organizational Psychology, Religion and Literature. In her astrological practice, Juana works with individuals exploring their natal charts from the psychological and evolutionary perspectives.

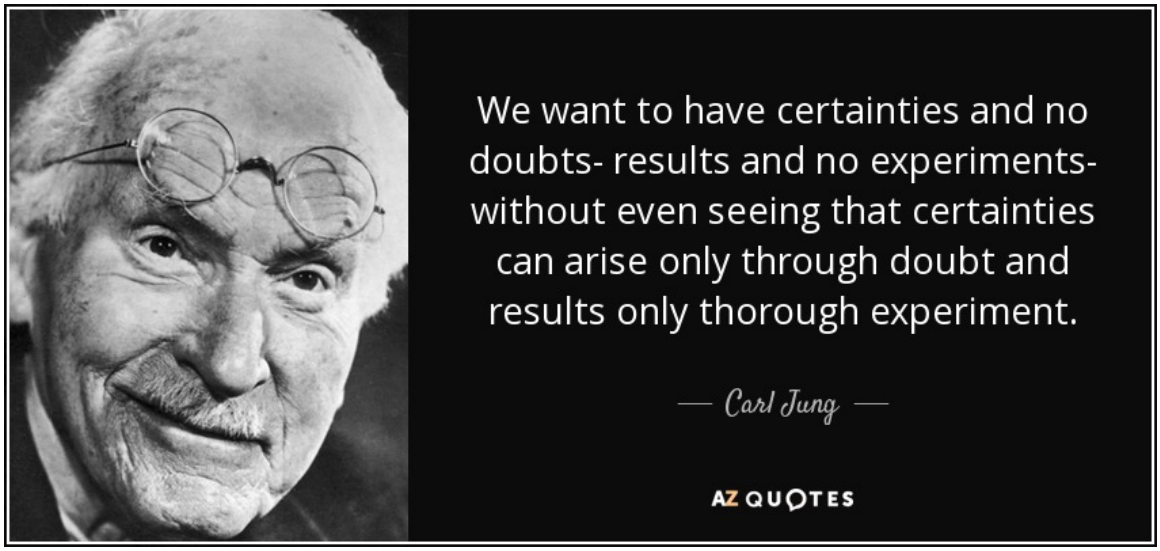
TUESDAY EVENING DISCUSSION GROUPS

6:30 PM to 8:30 PM

November 20th, 2018

Members and Students with valid IDs = $10
Non APC Attendees = $20
contact@jungclubnyc.org
C.G. Jung Center, 28 East 39th St., New York NY 10016

As most members know, the APC was started because patients of Mann, Harding and Bertine wanted to come together to learn more about Jung and Analytical Psychology and to form a community of people. These deliberations often lasted many hours and were the core of what the Club did during these early days.



The format of Tuesday Evenings will return to the beginning of the Club and examined the various aspects of Analytical Psychology and explore further what is this method of growth and to see how this method has helped and continues to help us individuate. Non-members are invited to attend.

On November 20th, the Club will have a discussion on “Modern Man in Search of the Soul”.

Wine, as well as coffee and tea, will be served.

Book Discussion Group

The Book Discussion Group is currently reading and discussing Eugene Pascal's "Jung To Live By". So far we've read and discussed chapters on the structure of the psyche, typology and the persona. This month we're launching into a chapter on the complexes. We meet every fourth Wednesday of the month at 6:30 pm in the Library. Please join us. The group is always happy to welcome new members. If you'd like more information, please call Bob McCullough at 212-532-8379.
